THE IMPEACHMENT.

TRIAL OF THE PRESIDENT

THIRTY-THIRD DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

An Exciting Day—The Vote on the Eleventh Article—Acquittal of the President—The Vote Thirty-Five for Conviction and Nineteen for Acquittal—Necessary for Conviction, Thirty Six Votes—Adjournment Until Tuesday, the 26th inst.

[Reported for the Baltimore Sun.]

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The impeachment court re-assembled to-day. There was an immense throng of spectators in the galleries, anxious to hear the result of the vote to be taken.

At 12 o'clock, noon, Chief Justice Chase assumed the chair, and called the Senate to order.

In the meantime Managers Stevens, Bingham and Logan, and Mr. Evarts and Mr. Stanbery, of counsel for the President, entered and took their places.

The Secretary proceeded to read the journal of the last day's proceedings in the case of "The United States against Andrew Johnson, President."

The reading being concluded, Senator Williams called up the order heretofore submitted by him in the following words:

Ordered, That the Chief Justice, in directing the secretary to read the several articles of impeachment, shall direct him to read the eleventh article first, and the question shall be taken on that article, and thereafter on the other ten successively, as they stand.

Before taking it up, Senator Edmunds offered the following order:

Ordered, That the secretary be directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate, sitting for the trial of the President on articles of impeachment, are now ready to receive them in the Senate chamber. Adopted.

Senator Johnson inquired whether the order of Senator Williams was debatable.

The Chief Justice replied that it was not.

Senator Johnson said he would like to make a remark on it.

Senator Conness objected.

The question was then put on taking up Senator Williams's order for action, and it was decided—yeas 34, nays 19.

Senator Wade voted for the first time, and voted in the affirmative.

Senator Grimes was not present.

The question was then taken on adopting the order, and it was carried by the same vote—yeas 34, nays 19—as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Anthony, Cameron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conkling, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Ferry, Frelinghuysen, Harlan, Howard, Howe, Morgan, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Nye, Patterson of New Hampshire, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Wade, Williams, Wilson and Yates—34.

Nays—Messrs. Bayard, Buckalew, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Fessenden, Fowler, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, McCreery, Norton, Patterson of Tennessee, Ross, Saulsbury, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Vickers and Willey—19.

While the vote was being taken the members of the House of Representatives were announced as at the bar of the Senate. They entered, headed by Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, and attended by their clerk and doorkeeper. Most of the members had preceded them, and had taken seats on the floor of the Senate chamber and in the galleries.

Mr. Fessenden rose to make a motion to postpone the vote for an hour, on account of the absence of Senator Grimes, but on being informed that that Senator was in the Capitol, he did not make the motion.

Mr. Grimes immediately afterward came into the chamber, and took his seat in one of the side aisles.

Mr. Edmunds then submitted an order that the Senate do now proceed to vote on the articles according to the rules of the Senate. Agreed to.

The Chief Justice, rising, said: By direction of the Senate the Chief Justice desires to admonish the citizens and strangers in the galleries that absolute silence and perfect order is required. It will be a subject of infinite regret if any viola- [...]

[...] call in these words: "On this article there are thirty-five Senators who have voted 'guilty,' and nineteen Senators who have voted 'not guilty.'" The President is, therefore, acquitted on this article.

No manifestation of sentiment was made on either side of the question. Whatever were the feelings of Senators, members and spectators, they were thoroughly suppressed.

Senator Williams's motion to adjourn till Tuesday, the 26th inst., was then taken up.

Senator Hendricks submitted, as a question of order, that the Senate was now executing an order already made, which was in the nature and had the effect of the previous question. Therefore the motion to adjourn, otherwise than simply to adjourn, was not in order.

[Calls of "Question, question."]

The Chief Justice.—The motion that when the Senate adjourn it adjourn to meet at a certain date cannot now be entertained, because the Senate is in process of executing an order. A motion to adjourn to a certain day seems to the chair to come under the same rule. The chair will, therefore, decide the motion not in order.

Senator Conness.—From that decision of the chair I appeal.

The Chief Justice put the question, and directed the clerk to read the order adopted to-day on motion of Senator Edmunds as follows:

Ordered that the Senate do now proceed to vote on the articles according to the rules of the Senate.

Senator Howard called for the yeas and nays on the question whether the decision of the chair should be sustained.

The vote was taken, and resulted—yeas 24, nays 30, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Anthony, Bayard, Buckalew, Conkling, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Ferry, Fessenden, Fowler, Grimes, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, McCreery, Morgan, Norton, Patterson of Tennessee, Saulsbury, Sherman, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Vickers and Willey—24.

Nays—Cameron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Frelinghuysen, Harlan, Howard, Howe, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Nye, Patterson of New Hampshire, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Ross, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Wade, Williams, Wilson and Yates—30.

So the decision of the Chief Justice was reversed, and the order to adjourn over was ruled to be in order.

Senator Henderson moved to amend the order by striking out the words "Tuesday, 26th instant," and inserting in lieu thereof the words "Wednesday, the 1st day of July next."

The amendment was rejected—yeas 20, nays 34, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Bayard, Buckalew, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Fessenden, Fowler, Grimes, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, McCreery, Norton, Patterson of Tennessee, Ross, Saulsbury, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Vickers and Willey—20.

Nays—Messrs. Anthony, Cameron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conkling, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Ferry, Frelinghuysen, Harlan, Howard, Howe, Morgan, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Nye, Patterson of New Hampshire, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Wade, Williams, Wilson and Yates—34.

Senator McCreery moved to amend the order by making it read to "adjourn without day."

The question was taken, and the amendment was rejected—yeas 6, nays 47, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Bayard, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, McCreery and Vickers—6.

Nays—Messrs. Anthony, Buckalew, Cameron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conkling, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Ferry, Fessenden, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Harlan, Henderson, Hendricks, Howard, Howe, Johnson, Morgan, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Norton, Nye, Patterson of New Hampshire, Patterson of Tennessee, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Ross, Saulsbury, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Wade, Willey, Williams, Wilson and Yates—47.

Senator Buckalew moved to amend the order by providing for an adjournment till Monday, the 25th instant.

Rejected, without division.

The question recurred on the order as originally offered by Senator Williams, to adjourn the court till Tuesday, 26th instant.

The vote was taken and resulted—yeas 32, nays 21, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Anthony, Cameron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Frelinghuysen, Harlan, Howard, Howe, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Nye, Patterson of New Hampshire, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Ross, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Van Winkle, Wade, Williams, Wilson and Yates—32. THE DEFEAT OF IMPEACHMENT

Interesting Scenes in the Court—How Senators Voted—Comments of the Press, &c.

The fact of the acquittal of the President on Saturday last, on the eleventh article, by the "high court of impeachment," is given elsewhere. The Washington Express gives the following interesting account of the scene and the taking of the vote in the Senate:

Senator Anthony being first on the roll, and being counted as doubtful, all eyes were turned upon him, and in a faltering voice he voted "guilty."

A buzz ran through the galleries, but having been admonished by the Chief Justice, and squads of policemen being stationed about the hall, no loud demonstration was made.

Then followed two votes for acquittal, Messrs. Bayard and Buckalew, but their votes excited no remark, as this was to be expected. Cameron, Cattell and Chandler voted successively for conviction, and when Mr. Cole's name was called curiosity was again excited, because it had been reported that he was one of the doubtful ones upon some of the articles. With a steady voice, however, he voted "guilty." Conkling, Conness, Corbett and Cragin voted as was expected they would, "guilty." So on the other side, Davis, Dixon and Doolittle voted successively for acquittal, the latter responding in a tone of voice loud and clear. Drake was next called, and he tried to throw in his voice a tone of unconcern, when every one knew that he had long ago committed himself, and that he was concerned for the result. Edmunds and Ferry next voted successively for conviction. The Secretary then called Mr. Fessenden. The Senator rose and stretched his tall form to its full length, and stood erect—He placed his thumbs in his pants pockets, and thus listened to the reading of the questions by the Chief Justice. Senator Sumner, who sits behind him, leaned over to catch a glimpse of Fessenden's face. The latter was perfectly composed, and in the clear voice of an honest conscientious man, voted "not guilty."

The clerk then called, "Mr. Fowler." The latter was from his seat to the left of the Chief Justice. He placed his hands upon his desk and listened to the reading of the question. All eyes were directed towards him, for he was considered doubtful, and a tremendous pressure had been brought to bear upon him. The question having been read, he made a response which was not distinctly heard, and he was requested to repeat, when, in a tremulous voice he answered "not guilty." The friends of the President breathed more freely, while Sumner, Chandler and Howard made a desperate but unsuccessful effort to conceal their disappointment. The vote now stood 10 for conviction and 7 for acquittal, and both parties became nervous. Senator Frelinghuysen is next on the roll to Fowler, and he voted guilty, although he has been claimed by both parties. Still, he was not positively counted on.

The name of Senator Grimes was next called. That gentleman occupied a chair to the left of the Chief Justice, and the latter, alluding to his recent indisposition, suggested that he be permitted to retain his seat while voting, and no objection was made and the Iowa Senator voted for acquittal. Senator Harlan followed with a vote for conviction. Senator Henderson was next called, and he rose nervously in his place under a battery of radical eyes from the radical side, while Conkling, Thayer, and Patterson, of New Hampshire, leaned forward with anxiety. The Missouri Senator had not spoken against the 11th article, and although his vote was claimed for acquittal, his radical friends still hoped. He was true to his principles, however, and voted not guilty. Mr. Hendricks followed with a vote upon the same side. Senator Howard's name came next, and he placed his shawl upon his desk in front of him. The Chief Justice Chase made the same suggestion in his case as in that of Mr. Grimes, but the Michigan Senator preferred to stand, although very weak, and he voted for conviction, and was followed by Senator Howe on the same side. Johnson and McCreery followed, voting not guilty, and Morgan, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, and Morton, voted successively for con- [...]

[...] Tuesday the 26th instant, without disposing of the remaining ten articles. The practical end has come, but the impeachers die hard and would not permit a vote on the other articles.

The Jacobins have all along been telling us that not to remove the President was to "incite bloodshed," "precipitate a conflict," etc. Well, it is decided now that the President shall stay where he is—but everybody, as we go to press, is as calm as can be. Nobody is precipitating a conflict, and nobody is shedding anybody's blood.

Demand for Conviction Properly Rebuked

The following telegram was sent to Washington last week, directed to Senators Pomeroy and Ross, of Kansas:

"Leavenworth, May 14.—Kansas has heard the evidence and demands the conviction of the President. D. R. ANTHONY, and one thousand others."

To the above Senator Ross has sent the following reply:

"Washington, May 16.—Gentlemen: I do not recognize your right to demand that I shall vote either for or against conviction. I have taken an oath to do 'impartial justice according to the constitution and laws,' and trust that I shall have courage and honesty to vote according to the dictates of my judgment and for the highest good of my country. E. G. ROSS.

"To D. R. Anthony and others."

REPLY OF THE MISSOURI DELEGATION TO SENATOR HENDERSON—A REJOINDER.

The Missouri congressional delegation have replied to Senator Henderson's recent letter to them. In their letter they say they are placed in a false position. But the misstatement of facts and inference they are confident was entirely unintentional on his part.

Senator Henderson has replied to them. In narrating what took place at the interview, he says, "It was at this point that I promised to ascertain whether I must resign or not. I did not want time to consider whether I could change my vote or sit silent, or commit perjury; but simply whether there would be a conviction regardless of my vote. These things were done on the spur of the moment, and almost without counsel on my part, and to me under a sense of humiliation which I cannot describe. So soon as I had time to reflect on the subject I determined to remain in my seat and do my duty. If my constituents, honest, intelligent, brave and reliable, shall in a body condemn me, I will give up my seat when it can be done with self-respect."

IRISH CHURCH ESTABLISHMENT.—The Irish Church establishment is comprised in thirty-four dioceses, with 1,391 benefices and 270 perpetual cures, in all 1,667 incumbencies, with a net income of about £339,864. The hierarchy consists of two archbishops and ten bishops with an income of £53,761, thus making the annual tax on the people of Ireland, for the item of ecclesiastical salaries alone, something like $1,[...] in gold, per annum. As illustrating at once the merits of the church controversy and the manner in which this tax must fall, we subjoin statistics based on the religious complexion of the population of Ireland:

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.]

The Death of Impeachment—Southern Senators and New Articles—Occurrences at the White House on Saturday—The President's Demeanor and Views—Congratulations on Acquittal—Investigations of Managers—Advice from Bishop Simpson.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The extraordinary agitation of the people that prevailed yesterday and up to a late hour of last night, was succeeded to-day by remarkable quiet.

No one well advised pretends, now, that there can be a conviction of the President upon any of the ten articles of impeachment remaining undisposed of. The eleventh article was selected by the advocates of impeachment as the one on which they could convict, if conviction could which they could convict, if conviction could be had at all. It is conceded that there will be as many votes for acquittal on each of the remaining articles, and in some cases more than were yesterday cast for acquittal on the eleventh article, and therefore the President cannot be convicted, as the case stands in the Senate.

Among some extreme impeachers we yet hear threats of further articles when the new Southern Senators shall be admitted to make a sure thing of a two-thirds vote for the removal of the President, but the more moderate and judicious republicans deprecate these threats and refuse to countenance any further prosecution of the impeachment project after the articles now pending in the Senate shall be disposed of. It is not believed that a majority of the republicans of either the Senate or House would agree to consider a proposition to get up new articles.

There were no very remarkable occurrences at the White House yesterday or extravagant demonstrations of a jubilant character. The President continued calmly pursuing the regular routine of his official labors during the day. He was advised promptly by brief dispatches from the capitol as the several votes were taken in the impeachment trial and knew the result within a few minutes after he had been acquitted on the eleventh article. Shortly after the impeach- [...]

THE SUN.

BALTIMORE, MONDAY, MAY 18, 1868.

IMPEACHMENT.—Verdict on the Eleventh Article.—The Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, came to a vote on the eleventh of the impeachment articles against the President on Saturday last, and the result was a decision of "not guilty" upon that article by the constitutional vote. The eleventh article, in addition to the allegation of the denial of the authority of Congress by the President, and the attempts to prevent the execution of the civil tenure act, as well as the military act of 1867, also charges the President with obstruction of the reconstruction laws. On this the vote was 35 to 19, as follows, the names of the republicans, seven in number, voting "not guilty," being in italics.

Guilty.—Messrs. Anthony, Cameron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conkling, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Ferry, Frelinghuysen, Harlan, Howard, Howe, Morgan, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Nye, Patterson of New Hampshire, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Wade, Willey, Williams, Wilson and Yates—35.

Not Guilty.—Bayard, Buckalew, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Fessenden, Fowler, Grimes, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, McCreery, Norton, Patterson of Tennessee, Ross, Saulsbury, Trumbull, Van Winkle and Vickers—19.

The test of strength on this article, which was believed to able to command the largest number probably on the impeachment side, disclosed the fact that, putting forth their greatest strength, the impeachers lacked one of the two-thirds necessary for conviction.

At this moment, with a shameless audacity which is utterly without a parallel in judicial annals, the impeachers, having submitted their case to the ordeal of a verdict, having consented that that verdict should be rendered, flew the track and refused to permit a final decision as soon as they discovered it would be against themselves. The expedient resorted to by the defeated party was one which instantly disclosed the desperation alike of their cause and of their character. The same motive which, in the first of last week, led to the motion to adjourn when it was supposed a vote was about to be taken, led them now, without the assigning of any excuse whatever, to postpone the case once more till Tuesday, the 26th instant.—The previous failure to come to a vote meant that conviction could not then be carried, and this last postponement was because that fact was actually demonstrated by a test vote.—What is to be gained by the postponement is not very clear, but as the national nominating convention of the republican party is to meet at Chicago the present week, it was probably thought advisable, with reference to party purposes, to leave the question open till after the adjournment of that body.

The first postponement gave time to the impeachers to put forth their utmost energies to intimidate and browbeat the doubtful, and truly such a display of maniac wrath, throwing off not only all semblance of a judicial purpose, but of reason and decency, has seldom been witnessed in the political contests of any land or any age. The most illustrious members of the Senate, men whom their present maligners have themselves assigned the first position for statesmanship and integrity in their party, have been denounced as guilty of crimes far greater than those for which Andrew Johnson has been impeached, and threatened with infamy if they should vote according to the requirements of their oaths and consciences.

With this second postponement, the change of impeachment from a judicial to a political measure not only becomes apparent, but stands confessed and avowed by its own friends. Assured that a verdict of guilty cannot be had, the majority which has the power to adjourn, though not to convict, takes time to make another effort to develop all the resources of party machinery, intimidation and clamor, to control the decision. Once more the passions of the party will be invoked, and all the influences of persuasion and terror brought to bear upon those members of the court who are not willing to sacrifice the first principles of justice and of law for the purpose of conviction. The country has no reason to fear that such appliances will be more successful in the future than the past. The seven republican Senators who, with such moral heroism, have faced the howling storm of partisan denunciation heretofore, may be relied upon to stand firm in the sublime position which they now occupy in the eyes of the world and will surely hold in the pages of history. The noble temper and firmness which the republican Senators who stood upon their consciences and oaths have displayed, the admirable calmness and strength of will with which they have resisted the fury and insolence of the attacks upon their integrity and independence, will win them a higher place in the respect of the world than any official station could bestow. As to the fate of impeachment, the vote of Saturday cannot but inspire the hope and belief with the people that the President can never be removed by a fair verdict of the court as at present constituted. When the case ends, if it ever does end, the trial of the judges at the bar of public opinion will begin.

Meantime, however, it will be seen that intimations are made of the dark purpose of the impeachers to frame some new article of indictment against the President, and bring in the Senators from the reconstructed States of the South to vote and convict him thereon.

When Mr. Jefferson was in Van Dieman's Land (Tasmania now,) the play of "The Ticket of Leave Man" reached him. Impressed with its humanity as well as its dramatic worth, he immediately announced its production. A deep sensation followed. Although years since Van Dieman's Land ceased to be a convict colony, a sensitiveness existed that caused all Hobartown to murmur and to mutter, fearing that the play was a reproach.

The night came for its production—five hundred "ticket-of-leave" men were in among the audience.—Mr. Jefferson says that his appearance with his prison-cropped head was a moment never to be forgotten—not one round of applause, but a fearful stillness that was paralyzing. He could see the clenched teeth of determined and desperate men in front, ready to retort in violence any cruel allusion to their past lives.

As the play progressed, all this changed—of course tumultuous applause followed Jefferson's success as Bob Brierly, and whenever that poor, persecuted Ticket of Leave Man spurned the temptations to sin, which were ever in his way, the house rang with the most vehement demonstrations of delight.

BALTIMORE, MONDAY, MAY 18, 1868.

Fortieth Congress--Second Session

[Reported for the Baltimore Sun.]

WASHINGTON, May 16.

SENATE.

The Chaplain prayed that the Senators might not break under the strain which was brought to bear against them; that those who were sick should not be sick unto death, that the result of to-day, which was to affect 30,000,000 of people and generations to come, should be one that would enure to righteousness. God put an injunction upon all erring.

Mr. Trumbull, from the committee on the judiciary, reported without amendment the bill to admit Arkansas to representation in Congress.

Mr. Hendricks said, as a member of the judiciary committee, he had been unable to agree with that report, and would like to present his views before the subject was again taken up.

After some debate on the resolution from the House, to adjourn to the 25th instant, which was rejected, the Senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr Washburne, of Illinois made a report that the House had attended at the bar of the Senate at the trial of Andrew Johnson, and that the said court had voted upon the eleventh article and proved the said President not guilty therein, the vote being thirty-five for conviction and nineteen for acquittal.

The report was ordered to be entered on the Journal.

Mr Eldridge, of Wisconsin, offered as a question of privilege a resolution similar in import to that offered yesterday by Mr. Woodward, of Pennsylvania, directing the appointment of a select committee of seven to investigate the facts of the correspondence of the Missouri radical members with Senator Henderson, with a view of influencing the vote of the latter upon the impeachment trial.

The Speaker said the resolution implied a corrupt combination of the members, but he was not fully satisfied that it was so. He would, however, submit the question to the House to decide if it was a question of privilege.

The question of receiving the resolution as a question of privilege was taken by yeas and nays, and it was not received—yeas 28, nays 82.

Mr. Orth, of Indiana, from the committee on private land claims, reported a bill to adjudicate certain claims in the Territory of New Mexico. Passed.

A number of other bills of a private nature was disposed of, and the House adjourned until Monday.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

(Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.

The Impeachment Trial—Scenes and Incidents in the Senate on Saturday—Gossip in the Galleries and Scheming on the Floor—Taking the Verdict on the Eleventh Article—Announcing the Result—Demoralization of the Impeachers, &c.

Yesterday will be long remembered in the future, not only by those who were witnesses of the deeply interesting and momentous scene which transpired in the capital, but by the anxious millions throughout the length and breadth of the country, who were awaiting with the utmost suspense the first flashes of intelligence by the electric current.

At the Capitol the same careful preparations for preserving decorum were observable as on Tuesday last. The uniformed policemen swarmed through all the corridors, the galleries were plentifully sprinkled with these "gray-eyed minions of the law," and every part of the Senate wing of the massive building was constantly under their scrutiny.

The crowd commenced pouring in by ten o'clock, and by eleven not a spare seat could be found in the galleries, but still they came, and when the hour of noon arrived one solid mass of living faces rose tier above tier, one solid mass of sweltering humanity was wedged between the four walls of the Senate Chamber, and the sun shone down on the vast iron roof with a melting effect that the fair ones panted ...
